Privacy Policy

The Chicago Help Initiative (CHI) has created this privacy statement in order to demonstrate our firm commitment to privacy. The following discloses our information gathering and dissemination practices for this website.

You can browse our website without disclosing any “personal information,” such as your name, mailing address and e-mail address. The Chicago Help Initiative only collects personal information that you provide to us voluntarily. When you provide us with your personal information, you acknowledge and agree that we may use and store information about you in accordance with our Privacy Policy. We use this information to send you our electronic newsletter, other information about CHI and notification of events, volunteer opportunities and fundraisers. You may opt out of receiving future mailings (see “Choice/Opt-Out” section below).

We WILL NOT give, or sell your email address or other contact information.

This site contains links to other sites. We are not responsible for the privacy practices or the content of such websites. CHI has contracted with Acceptiva to provide a secure method of making online donations to our organization. When you click the Donate button on our website, you will be transmitting data via a secure server and your data will be encrypted for security. Acceptiva does not have permission to use your information for any other purpose other than to process your donation payment for The Chicago Help Initiative.

Donor Information

We will not trade, sell or share a donor’s personal information with anyone else, nor send mailings on behalf of other organizations. This policy applies to both online and offline donors.
